BLAINE AND CONKLING CONTRASTED BY THE HERALD

Beecher Meets Difficulty in Bossing his own Church.

Grand Mardi Gras Celebrations in the South—D. O. Mills Makes Large Investments at New York

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

NEW YORK, March 1.—The Herald remarks of the coming president that when Blaine went before the people last summer as the man of all others who had abhorred Grant and [illegible] Garfield he was the leader of the party, but somehow the leadership was unfortunate. His own state, republican Maine, was taken from him and Garfield found himself a defeated candidate. Then Conkling came to the front. Maine, which Blaine had lost, was carried, Indiana was carried and New York, which voted for Tilden, swung around for Garfield. Senator Blaine withdrew from the canvass not alone defeated, but having met a humiliating disaster. He threw himself into the senatorial contest wherever a friend of Grant was named and he either defeated him or caused a bolt as in Pennsylvania. The Herald says that Platt and Miller are the only ones among the senators elect who are friends of Grant. He has no more sincere and devoted friend in public life than Miller. The Herald concludes: As a leader of republican politics Blaine stands in the first place, but there are times when it is decorous for the party to consult the people. There may be occasions when Garfield will feel as he has felt before that with the American people the influence of Grant and Conkling is greater than that of a regiment of Blaines with all the anti third term senators elect thrown in.

Trouble in Plymouth Church.

NEW YORK, March 1.—Considerable feeling has arisen among Beecher's congregation over a sharp disagreement between Beecher and his music committee, caused by the arbitrary action of Beecher in summarily removing his organist to make room for another of his choice. Protests have been made by H. B. Claflin, John B. Hutchinson and other leading members of the congregation.

Ministerial Changes.

It is thought that Rev. Dr. Silver of the Park Congregational church, Brooklyn, will be Chapin's successor in the Church of Divine Paternity here, and Dr. Charles Hall of Holy Trinity, Brooklyn, successor to Dr. Washburne of Calvary here.

The Paris Monetary Conference.

The Washington special correspondent of the Commercial Bulletin was informed yesterday by Warner of Ohio, author of the silver bill, that at the monetary conference to be held in Paris April 19th all the latin union and the other nations that participated in the conference in 1878, together with Spain, will be represented. Secretary Evarts had [illegible] ready to send out several days ago. There are two main propositions to go before the convention. First—Unlimited coinage at the rate of 15½ of silver to 1 of gold. Second—Silver coins to be unlimited legal tender. The nations will have each the right to regulate the denomination and size of their coins, but when they would be taken to another nation's mint they could be recoined on demand free of cost at a coinage rate of 15½ to 1. A provision has been inserted in the civil appropriation bill to pay the expenses of the commission from this country, of which Secretary Evarts will probably be the head.

The New York Money Market.

NEW YORK, March 1.—The Post says: In the money market stock brokers in many cases are paying a commission of 1/16, but there is a much steadier tone to this as well as other markets, on the prospect of defeat of the refunding bill and the adjournment of congress. The treasury continues to take in more money than it pays out; deposits to withdraw national bank notes amounting for to-day to $202,500, while disbursements by way of bond purchases amount to only $117,000. Neither of these movements would be considered important were it not that since the senate passed the refunding bill the treasury has absorbed not far from $10,000,000 more lawful money than it has paid out, so that bank reserves here and elsewhere are that much lower than they were when the raid on the banks became serious. The reports of Canadian money which came here last week are very much exaggerated, less than $1,000,000 all told having arrived.

Circulation Retirement.

National Bank deposits to-day for retirement of circulation $1,064,000; aggregate to date $[illegible] 479.

Heavy Purchases of New York Real Estate by D. O. Mills.

NEW YORK, March 1.—The Sun has the following additional respecting recent purchases by D. O. Mills. His purchases were made at private sale, and from a trustworthy source it is learned that the price paid for the entire property was about $4,000,000. It is reported that this sum is fixed about as follows: For the Franklin, $1,[illegible]00,000; to furnish the property $[illegible]0,000, and Charter Oak $[illegible]00,000. The improvement contemplated will drive large numbers of brokers and bankers to other quarters, and in consequence rents advanced considerably in Wall street yesterday. It is said that the rents of unleased offices in the Drexel building, which adjoins the property, have been doubled.

New York Walking Match.

NEW YORK, March 1.—Allen retired from the race after 11 o'clock to-night with a score of 173 miles. Midnight score: Sullivan 221, Panchot 2[illegible], Krohne 64, Howard 213, Campana 18[illegible], Curran 1[illegible], Jacouse 174.

Meeting of the National Rifle Association.

General Hancock presided at a meeting of the National Rifle Association to-day. Judge Lawrence presented a $500 trophy to the present short range championship, open to any rifle club in North America. Gen. Hancock advocated prize drills early in the season. A letter was received from Earl Stanhope saying that the invitation for him to represent Great Britain in a contest for the palm trophy had been referred to the rifle association of Great Britain.

The New Orleans Mardi Gras Celebration.

NEW ORLEANS, March 1.—The Mystick Krewe of Komus parade to-night was one of the handsomest displays of the kind ever presented here, and as the route of the procession was much shorter than the day demonstration, the streets were literally packed, every available spot of street, sidewalks, doors, windows and galleries being occupied. The theme illustrated was Myths of the Northland. The Rex reception this evening at the exposition palace was largely attended, as also the balls at all the theaters and halls in the city.

The Celebration at Memphis.

MEMPHIS, March 1.—The weather this morning is delightful and the streets are thronged with people. The crowd is the largest ever gathered at any Mardi Gras celebration. At noon an industrial procession representing the manufacturing and business interests of the city moved through the streets. The procession was varied and made a fine display.

MEMPHIS, March 1.—The Mystic Memphi procession to-night was a grand turnout, displaying in gorgeous tableaux the theme of the Golden Fleece. After the pageant a series of tableaux were given at [illegible] theater, followed by a grand ball.

Dry Goods Failure.

[illegible], March 1.—The extensive dry goods firm of Delcroix & Weld at Meadville, with branches in Titusville, Bradford, Warren and [illegible], failed to-day. Liabilities estimated at a quarter of a million dollars. The failure was precipitated by executions obtained by H. B. Claflin of New York.

Sensation in a Church.

JERSEY CITY, March 1.—While Rev. Father McCarthy was celebrating mass this morning at St. Michael's church, Frank Finn, an escaped lunatic, rushed upon the altar and, seizing the priest around the body, endeavored to throw him to the floor. It required the united efforts of several men and boys to force the lunatic loose from his grasp.

Burning of the Minnesota State House.

ST. PAUL, March 1.—To-night while both houses were in session the state capitol took fire and was consumed, causing a loss to the state of $100,000. The fire spread so rapidly that some members had to escape by ladders and received slight burns. The records were saved by being in the vault. No insurance.

Strike of Stove Moulders at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, March 1.—There is no question of wages connected with the strike of stove moulders at the excelsior works to-day. The demand was simply that four non-union men who were working in a foundry should be discharged, and this being refused by the proprietors the union moulders quit. It is a square fight as to whether the union or the proprietors shall control the largest stove works in the city.

Western Oregon.

The boys are beginning to take in the speckled trout from Silver creek.

Nineteen canneries will be in operation the coming season between Tongue point and the mouth of the river.

Five car loads of ties per day pass through Silverton for the extension on the west side, from Dallas to Monmouth.

One day last week as Messrs. Myneer and J. Albright were splitting board timber in Butte Creek precinct, Myneer's ax glanced and hit Mr. Albright on the foot, making a severe wound.

The firm of S. Brown & Co. of Gervais are now delivering under contract 1000 bushels of the finest Garnichili potatoes at the railroad depot for shipment to San Francisco, for which he realizes 30c per bushel exclusive of the sacks.

Astorian: Improvements at upper Astoria are being pushed forward with vigor, indicating lively times the coming season, and a good prospect for the future welfare of the town. Three new canneries will be added to the already large number which will be in active operation the coming season. The Occident Packing Co. have their new cannery nearly completed. Messrs. C. Timmons & Co. and Messrs. S. D. Adair & Co. have commenced work and will build immediately. The Astoria box and lumber manufacturing company have their new mill completed and have commenced sawing.

At the Bybee-Hockett mine near Waldo a clean up was made last week which resulted in nearly $1700. Pretty good this for a ten days' run.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

WASHINGTON, March 1.

A special train carrying President-elect Garfield and family arrived at 9 o'clock. Gen. Garfield was informally received in a few pleasant remarks by Col. Ingersoll of the inaugural committee. Carriages were in waiting, and the president-elect with his family, excepting his aged mother, who was driven direct to the executive mansion, were escorted to the hotel. It was General Garfield's wish that no formal demonstration take place upon reaching the hotel. W. Daridge, a member of the committee appointed, received the president-elect and delivered a short address of welcome on behalf of the committee. Gen. Garfield responded briefly, thanking the committee for the complete arrangements for the comfort of himself and family and expressing himself as being fatigued from the journey, which he hoped would excuse further remarks. President Hayes will call on the president-elect to-day. To-morrow evening Gen. Garfield will dine with Representative Chittenden and afterward hold a reception, for which cards have been issued. On Friday morning the president and Mrs. Hayes will turn over the executive mansion to the president-elect and Mrs. Garfield, and on Saturday the retiring president and family will leave by special train for Cleveland.

Garfield Calls on Hayes.

Previous to the convening of the cabinet to-day President-elect Garfield called at the executive mansion and paid his respects to the president and members of the cabinet. The president and president-elect then concluded to convene the senate in special session.

Talk about Kirkwood and a Cabinet Position.

A report that Senator Kirkwood is to be secretary of the interior in Garfield's cabinet has suddenly obtained considerable credit. A republican senator this morning had his name put down for Kirkwood's seat, which is one of the last in the chamber. Many of the republican senators believe that Kirkwood is to be appointed, and general satisfaction is expressed at his promotion.

Friends of Stanley Matthews assert that he will be renominated for United States supreme judge by Garfield at the request of President Hayes.

Inaugural Arrangements.

The marshals of the inauguration procession will Thursday conclude arrangements and name staff officers, etc.

Official Notice of Sherman's Retirement.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Secretary Sherman has informed the officers of the treasury department that his administration would close Thursday next in order to take his seat in the senate Friday.

Receiver Appointed for the Boise City Land Office.

The president has sent to the senate the nomination of Saml. B. Axtell of California to be receiver of the land office at Boise City, Idaho.

Important Bill Passed Over to Next Session.

NEW YORK, March 1.—A Washington special says: The ways and means committee adjourned to-day sine die without saying anything about sugar, or Hurd's tariff for revenue only resolution.

The Apportionment Bill.

The house refused to consider the apportionment bill.

Randall's Opinion.

Speaker Randall said this afternoon positively that the funding bill will pass the house and become a law.

A Personal Opinion.

Senator Burnside to-day expressed himself as opposed to postponing the day for convening the senate in extra session, and said that it ought to be called on March 4th as usual.

The Isthmus Bills.

Senator Eaton, from the committee on foreign relations, has reported back sundry bills and resolutions recommending the construction of ship canals or railways across the isthmus. He said that the committee asked to be discharged from consideration of all these subjects, thinking that the time had not arrived when congress should legislate with reference to the matter.

Matters before the House.

The house voted [illegible] the inter-state commerce bill [illegible] on the calendar of unfinished business, and then after the passage of all preceding matters on the speaker's table took up the funding bill and its [illegible] amendments. The republicans have abstained from filibustering thus far.

The house adopted the conference report on the river and harbor bill, which appropriates $11,141,800.

Special Session of Senate Ordered.

The president has issued a proclamation convening the senate in special session at noon March 4th.

The Big Divide.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—The conference report on the river and harbor bill has been adopted in the house, and the senate will adopt it this afternoon. The house concurred in nearly all of the senate amendments.

California Features in the Harbor Bill.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—The river and harbor bill as agreed upon by the committee of conference and finally passed by both houses of congress to-day contains all the increased California appropriations heretofore reported in these dispatches as the result of Senator Farley's amendments, namely $40,000 for the Sacramento river instead of $20,000 originally voted by the house of representatives; $40,000 for the San Joaquin river instead of $20,000; a new item of $40,000 for Humboldt, and $41,000 for Wilmington harbor instead of $11,000. The increase in each instance is up to the full amount of the engineers' estimates of amounts that can be advantageously used during the next fiscal year, and Senator Farley, who obtained the increase by the committee on commerce and as a member of the conference committee secured their retention in the bill, is of the opinion that considerably larger amounts would have been granted by congress for California if the local engineer authorities had made as large estimates proportionately as the Atlantic coast engineers are in the habit of making. The fact is that the bill as it came from the house granted as large a percentage of the engineers' estimates for California as it granted of the engineers' estimates for eastern improvements. Many of the latter seemed to be of greater consequence simply because more was officially asked for them. The conference did not retain the senate amendment to the [illegible] Oakland harbor appropriation, and consequently the condition attached to the expenditure of money for this object remains as [illegible] by the house. The provision, however, is identical with that of last year's bill, and Attorney General Devens' opinion overcoming the difficulty raised thereby will doubtless be considered sufficient by the next secretary of war to authorize continuance of present operations. The conference committee retained Slater's amendment appropriating $30,000 for Coos bay, Oregon. All Pacific items not mentioned above remain in the bill without changes from the amount originally voted by the house of representatives.

Chinese Treaties.

Senator Eaton, chairman of the committee on foreign relations, said to-night in reply to a question as to prospects for action on the Chinese treaties this session that he has at last substantially abandoned the hope of securing their consideration during the short remaining time before the 4th of March. It is only fair to add that if, as now seems practically certain, the treaties shall go over to the special session, the delay will not be due to any lack of good management or of faithful effort on the part of Senator Eaton, who has charge of them, but must be attributed to pressure of previously accumulated business and to several unforeseen occurrences, such as the announcements of the death of two members of the house of representatives and of Senator Carpenter, which on three separate days recently caused early adjournment of the senate and prevented the holding of executive sessions, at which according to previous arrangements the way would have been clear for discussing and reaching action on the treaties.

Prospects of the Funding Bill.

It is generally understood now that the republicans will permit the funding bill to pass, and Secretary Sherman's position in favor of the bill exercised a strong influence in withdrawing republican opposition.

Public Debt Statement.

The debt statement shows the decrease of the public debt for the month of February $1,[illegible] 155; cash in treasury, $23,208,176; gold certificates, $6,541,480; silver certificates, $47,888,[illegible]0; certificates of deposit outstanding, $7,965,000; refunding certificates $[illegible] 750; legal tender outstanding $346,681,016; fractional currency outstanding, $15,520,347—less amount estimated as lost or destroyed, $[illegible]—$7,144,[illegible].

CANADA.

Business Failure.

MONTREAL, March 1.—W. & F. P. Currie & Co., in the iron trade, have suspended; liabilities between $400,000 and $500,000, assets not sufficient to pay 50 per cent.

CENTRAL AND SOUTH AMERICA.

The Waste of Riot and Plunder.

PANAMA, March 1.—The losses by fire and robberies during the riots at Lima and Callao are estimated at $6,000,000.

Seattle Post: Andrew Chilberg last Saturday sold prepaid tickets for a family of four bound for Washington territory from Stuttgardt, Wurtemberg, by the Red Star line. The husband and father, Fred Bauerle, of Tacoma, has been a resident of the territory for about eight years, and is so much pleased with the country and climate that he has concluded to send for his family and locate here permanently.

It has been determined that the new buildings will be put up at Fort Klamath post during the coming summer.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

LONDON, March 1.—In the house Wilfrid Lawson asked whether any [illegible] had been given restraining the Boers in the Transvaal from advancing until the result of the negotiations with the Boers was known.

Childers, secretary for war, [illegible] make any statement in regard to communications between Gen. Colley and the Boer [illegible]. In regard to Gen. Colley particularly, as in [illegible] Colley's death he is not quite sure of the position of negotiations. Childers also said that the loss of life in the fight between Gen. Colley and the Boers had been exaggerated. Thirty-five officers and 500 men were engaged. Three officers were killed. [illegible] wounded and [illegible] taken prisoners. Total killed, wounded and taken prisoners or missing, 9[illegible].

Harcourt, home secretary, said that he had received a threatening telegram signed John Devoy [illegible] make representations in regard to the [illegible] government. Such representations might give rise to an international controversy. Devoy [illegible] a British [illegible] became an American citizen. So long as he and his confederates, leaders of the land league, are content to remain beyond the sea and on the other side of the Atlantic we will not interfere with them. If they come over we may have to pay them some attention.

Hartington said that the government means to go on with the arms bill daily, but on Thursday the secretary of war will move the bill at 9 P.M. and make a statement regarding the army organization. This is because he was prevented by obstruction from making a statement yesterday.

The home secretary introduced the arms bill. It prohibits the carrying of arms except by those having permits, search of houses from suspicion of arms, and empowers the authorities to prohibit and regulate the importation and sale of arms, dynamite and nitroglycerine. The maximum penalty on summary conviction is three months imprisonment without labor. The bill remains in force five years. Urgency was voted for the arms bill, 305 to [illegible]. Conservatives voted in the minority, which included Ashton W. Dilke, [illegible] advanced liberals, Edwards, McDonald and [illegible] liberals, Burt, Bradlaugh and [illegible] radicals.

The Irish members have telegraphed to Parnell to return to parliament.

The Lords on the Irish Question.

LONDON, March 1.—In the house of lords to-day Earl Spencer, lord president of the council, in moving second reading of the protection bill pointed out that outrages, though greatly diminished in number, were still committed in Ireland, and he cited some recent cases. He said that these outrages could be only the results of inflammatory speeches, but necessity for the bill arose less from perpetration of outrages than from difficulty in bringing the offenders. Earl Spencer did not wish their lordships to think that rebellion in Ireland was imminent, but when such hostile feeling existed, and when American papers were inciting Irishmen to rebellion, outrage and assassination, there would be great danger if prompt and effective measures were not taken for the maintenance of law and order.

Beaconsfield reluctantly supported the bill because he thought it absolutely necessary. Agitation in Ireland was fostered by organized conspiracy. [illegible] It was absolutely necessary that the government should possess power to defend the [illegible] from foreign conspirators who were passing to and between another country and Ireland [illegible].

The bill was then read the second time, and the committee stage having been negatived, its third reading was fixed for Wednesday morning.

Amnesty Proposed for Spanish Rebels.

MADRID, March 1.—A correspondent at [illegible] that Marshal Campos intends to submit a bill to the Cortes granting a general amnesty to all persons implicated in recent conspiracies [illegible]. The amnesty will include all Cubans under charge for complicity in insurrections.

DISTRESSED IRELAND

First Effects of the New Law—A Sample Eviction—Many Others to Follow

LONDON, Feb. 28.—The emergency committee are taking steps to meet the wants of [illegible] of land leaguers who are [illegible] tenants, and who desire that the committee shall supply them with protestant tenants from Ulster and elsewhere. Districts are to be opened for the names of those willing to accept farms from which tenants have been evicted, and [illegible] will be no lack of applicants. The powers which will be placed in the hands of the authorities by the [illegible] will have a really subdued [illegible] who opposed the tactics of the land league. [illegible] evictions are taking place all over Ireland. The eviction of Rev. Patrick Hurley, parish priest of Kilkeran, Kings county, has created a little consternation. The Reverend Father's predecessor took a house and farm of 42 acres from a middleman landlord, and retaining the house and garden, sublet the land to three tenants—rent £67 and valuation £4[illegible]. When the reverend gentleman was appointed [illegible] parish he had to take up the land and work it at a loss. He had also held himself responsible for the rent of the sub-tenant who fell into arrears. The priest then handed the land over to an energetic young farmer of the neighborhood. The middleman landlord refused to recognize this tenant and took proceedings against Rev. Mr. Hurley and sub-tenants on smaller portions of the farm. The county chairman refused to grant a decree, but the case was taken to the queen's bench. The result was that Tuesday morning last the parish priest was evicted and his furniture put into the street, and his sub-tenants were similarly treated. In [illegible] evictions at [illegible] and Hamilton [illegible] counties [illegible] property of Rev. Mr. McGough was [illegible] and [illegible] voked curses on the landlord, while the [illegible] and sick people were carried out and laid on the roadside. These are typical of what may be expected when the great evictions [illegible] over the country. The league has issued a circular to the secretary of branch leagues throughout Ireland asking details of all evictions since January 1st.

A Disgusted Home Ruler.

LONDON, March 1.—Mitchell Henry, a home ruler, writing to a gentleman who sent [illegible] land league, says: I never belonged to the league. A stupid and irritating policy of the past few months has crippled the Irish vote [illegible] in America and at home is removed to foreign soil and no court publishes [illegible] at the very crisis of a fight in parliament.

Afraid of the New Law.

A large meeting which it was proposed to hold at Dublin under the auspices of the home rulers has been abandoned, owing to Hartington's statement in the commons last night relative to the public meeting bill.

A Futile Attempt.

LONDON, March 1.—Leaders of the conservatives in the house of commons have decided to make a desperate attempt to defeat the Irish land bill by coalition of home rulers and disaffected radicals.

From Dublin.

DUBLIN, March 1.—The police are very active in making arrangements for arrests, and lists of persons have been prepared for presentation to the viceroy. The land league will not be interfered with so long as it keeps within reasonable bounds. Owing to the near approach of the enforcement of the coercion bills several persons from the other side of the Atlantic have disappeared from Dublin. The fenian element is considered contemptible, and the authorities know everything connected with it.

GEN. COLLEY'S DEFEAT

A Correspondent gives Details of the Battle—A Fair Victory for the Boers.

LONDON, March 1.—Gen. Roberts will have by the time he arrives at Natal a force of 3000 men. Detailed accounts received to-day render it certain that the British were driven from Spitzkop because they were fairly beaten. The fight ended in a rout. The most moderate estimate places the losses at 300 killed and wounded. The latter lay exposed to heavy rain from Sunday afternoon until early Monday morning.

A correspondent with Colley's force at Spitzkop gives the following account of the engagement: Spitzkop is 3000 yards from the Boer position. Two companies were left at the base of the hill. The remainder of the troops toiled up the hill, which is very steep and difficult of ascent, on their hands and knees. It would have been impossible to carry up even mountain guns. Had we had those the result might have been different. The whole force reached the summit before daylight, and at about 5 o'clock began firing. The Boers had no videttes posted and were completely surprised, but promptly returned the fire. Our men had little cover. The number of Boers at the base of the hill was 2000. Up to midday their loss was certainly heavier than ours. Gen. Colley was conspicuous for coolness and courage. He kept up constant communication with the camp by signals. Shortly after noon the Boer fire, which heretofore averaged fifty shots a minute, increased to a terrific volley. Our men were unable to withstand it. They wavered and were rallied, and then wavered again. The Boers climbed to the summit of the hill at [illegible] with a terrible fire as they went [illegible] their side.

This correspondent was captured by the Boers, who treated him well and gave him a pass to return to the camp. He identified the body of General Colley on the hill.

Loss in Colley's Fight.

MOUNT PROSPECT, March 1.—General [illegible] was shot [illegible] the [illegible] was firing. The total [illegible] the present two officers killed, [illegible] four officers and [illegible] captured, and [illegible] officers [illegible] prisoners, and one [illegible] and one lieutenant missing.

The Fatal Shot.

LONDON, March 1.—Men engaged in the fight at Spitzkop state that the shot that killed [illegible] was fired at a distance of [illegible] yards from him.

The Boers have carried the body of Gen. Colley into their lines, and [illegible] that they will surrender it as soon as desired. A party has set out to bring the remains [illegible] camp. The Boers have taken [illegible] possession [illegible].

Report from the Boers.

LONDON, March 1.—A dispatch from Bloemfontein reports that the Boers telegraphed President Brand of Orange Free State that they have taken [illegible] soldiers and seven officers prisoners.

Complaint from the Boer Chief.

A correspondent at Prospect Hill telegraphs: [illegible] by the Boers reports that [illegible] interview with Joubert, the Boer commandant, who complained of Gen. Colley [illegible] bringing on a battle when peace negotiations were proceeding, and said that the Boers were prepared to treat for peace only on a basis of liberty. An [illegible] Irishman [illegible] was with Joubert and [illegible] to be his chief adviser.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

THE KALLOCH TRIAL.

The Defense Outlined—Once in Jeopardy, Self Defense and the Old Insane Dodge.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 1.—In the trial of young Kalloch for the murder of Charles De Young, the defense opened to-day. Great interest was manifested for a while. The prosecution followed. In the course of all previous knowledge of the tragedy the line of defense has been a fruitful subject of speculation. Highton, counsel for defense, in his opening [illegible] his defense to be: First, [illegible] that the prisoner having been once before placed in jeopardy and discharged, according to the court records; second, self defense; third, transitory mania. [illegible] expected to prove that [illegible] what had before happened, and from the known character of De Young the prisoner was in reasonable fear of his life; that on the day of the tragedy the prisoner had had an interview with a friend of De Young [illegible] appointment to meet deceased with a view of [illegible] pamphlet reflecting on prisoner's father, the [illegible] that in the event of its suppression the elder Kalloch would not prosecute De Young for an attempt on his life; that soon after the prisoner became aware that pamphlets were being [illegible], that he went to the Chronicle office in an agitated state of mind; observing a threatening expression on De Young's face [illegible] a motion to draw his pistol as he entered, and that drawing his pistol both fired simultaneously. He proposed to vindicate the testimony of Clementshaw, who was sent to the penitentiary for perjury in swearing at a preliminary examination that De Young fired the first shot.

At the conclusion of the opening address a number of witnesses were examined as to the condition of [illegible] prisoner previous to the tragedy.

The courtroom was crowded and great interest manifested.

[illegible] confinement in the Victoria jail he has made two desperate attempts to escape and [illegible] murdering [illegible], and great anxiety is felt in Victoria to get rid of such a dangerous character.

Gold Discovery.

The people of Port Discovery are greatly excited over a slight gold discovery in their vicinity. The specimen of quartz forwarded to San Francisco some time since from that place assays [illegible] per ton, which has induced parties to start after a mining expedition, from which they expect great results.

THE HANLAN LAYCOCK MATCH.

Particulars of the Event—A "Walk Over" for the Champion—Movements of Hanlan, Laycock and Trickett.

The following particulars of the recent sculling match for the championship of England, from the New York World of [illegible], will be read with interest [illegible].

The weather was [illegible] it was cold and misty, with a stiff northwest breeze which prevailed [illegible] there was a large quantity of [illegible] water [illegible] river [illegible] tide [illegible] little [illegible]. There was a large attendance [illegible] witnessing the race from the banks, while the three steamers all well [illegible] followed fairly well [illegible]. As usual Hanlan was early afloat, his boat [illegible] fitted with a wind board on the bow, in [illegible] was Laycock's. Hanlan won the [illegible] of stations and selected the Surrey side, which gave him a trifle advantage with the wind from the point it was. They got the word to a good start at [illegible] P.M., and in an instant, so it seemed to the spectators, Hanlan led by two lengths, rowing strongly at thirty seven strokes to Laycock's thirty nine. Having secured a commanding lead Hanlan slowed down a trifle, and at Hammersmith bridge, which he reached in 9m. 28s., he was rowing only twenty eight strokes, with a lead of about three lengths. Just before reaching Chiswick Laycock made a desperate effort during which he decreased Hanlan's lead somewhat, but was never able to reach the stern of the Canadian's boat. The course through Corney reach, nearly to Barnes bridge, was crowded with barges, but fortunately both men were able to row through them without fouling or being fouled. At Barnes bridge Hanlan, still rowing with ease, led by about two lengths, from which point he gradually drew away and finally won with the greatest ease by about four or five lengths, Laycock never having been able to make him row as fast as he was able. As usual there is some difference in the time reported. Hanlan's is said to have been [illegible] to Laycock's [illegible]. The time over the same course between Hanlan and Trickett was [illegible] 12s, so that it will be seen that both Hanlan and Laycock rowed a faster race to-day than was rowed in November.

The result of the race caused considerable enthusiasm, for Hanlan has made many friends since his arrival here last autumn. He now becomes absolute owner of the Sportsman's challenge cup. He also wins the £100 premium promised by the donors of the cup to whoever should win it in three straight races. Of Hanlan's future movements nothing has yet been really decided, but it is expected that he will leave for home via New York at the end of the present week, and that he will probably be accompanied by Mr. T. B. Whitefoot, chief of the Sportsman's staff, who will make a public presentation of the cup at Toronto, together with a commemorative gold medal of the value of 25 guineas.

In connection with the future championship the proprietors of the Sportsman will institute a second championship challenge cup of the value of 200 guineas, the initial contest for which will be rowed over the Tyne course during the coming summer. As to the future of Laycock and Trickett, nothing is positively known. There is a movement on hand to give Laycock a grand benefit before his departure for Australia, he at present wishing to go home at once. Trickett will probably go to the United States, he having received an invitation from Mr. Charles Reed of Saratoga; should he do so, he will take up his quarters at Reed's stable and go into training early in the season for a grand race over the Saratoga lake course, in which Hanlan and the world will be invited to participate some time during August.

CONGRESSIONAL.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, March 1.

The [illegible] senate bill [illegible] business. The bill [illegible] Japan [illegible] amounting to the [illegible] of $[illegible].

Morgan moved to amend by adding [illegible] foreign and [illegible] that the [illegible] shall cause to be paid [illegible] the fund so [illegible] $[illegible]000 to the officers and crew of the [illegible] ship Wyoming [illegible] in the destruction of [illegible] at [illegible] Simonoseki, [illegible] paid [illegible] the U. S. ship Jamestown in [illegible] 1864.

Kirkwood moved to amend further by fixing the [illegible] $[illegible]000 [illegible] without interest [illegible] Japan.

[illegible] as part of the bill the Morgan amendment.

During debate the conference report on the river and harbor bill was agreed to without discussion.

Beck reported from the committee on appropriations with amendments the sundry civil appropriation bills. The report is merely pro forma.

Every session [illegible] the house bill on the calendar favorably reported, unless otherwise [illegible] leaving the Japanese bill [illegible] unfinished business [illegible].

At the [illegible] [illegible] was [illegible].

The conference report on the fortifications appropriation bill was concurred in.

A number of house bills unobjected passed, three of public interest being the following: For settlement of the [illegible] of the Choctaw [illegible] the court of claims jurisdiction over claims arising under treaties during thirty years past; [illegible] military reservation [illegible] to homestead and timber culture entry; to amend that section of the revised statutes relating to suits at law affecting the title to mining claims, requiring a claimant whose title is [illegible] for a patent therefor; [illegible] preparation under direction of the [illegible] of patents of [illegible] abridgments [illegible] patent of the United States, copies to be sold at cost; to authorize registration of trade marks and protect the same; to give claimants in Indiana for quartermasters stores furnished to troops during the Morgan raid the same [illegible] in the matter of proofs given other claimants. [illegible]

House.

WASHINGTON, March 1.

McMahon reported the [illegible] list of the general appropriation bills ordered printed and recommitted.

Senate amendments were concurred in to the agricultural appropriation bill. The amendments increase the amount of the bill $25,500. The sum of $[illegible]000 is given for investigation of the [illegible] pleuro-pneumonia.

A report was made and adopted [illegible] the right of [illegible] to the [illegible] from the [illegible] Louisiana district.

The regular order was then demanded by Warner, who said that he desired [illegible] the speaker's table to take up the funding bill.

The speaker thereupon proceeded [illegible] bills, reports of [illegible] were submitted.

[illegible] business on the speaker's table for the purpose of taking up the funding bill.

Robeson called attention to the fact that the question of consideration raised yesterday by Carlisle was still undecided.

The speaker said that the apportionment bill has not been allowed up this morning.

Price thereupon called up that bill and Carlisle raised a question of consideration.

Haskell [illegible] moved to recommit the apportionment bill.

Speaker—That is not now before the house.

[illegible] the other side would [illegible] to take up the bill [illegible].

Price—[illegible]

[illegible] None of them will do it. They never intend to pass that bill.

At this point the proceedings were interrupted by Reagan with a conference report on the river and harbor bill [illegible] statement which accompanied the report [illegible]. As the bill passed the house it appropriated $111,[illegible]. The senate increased this amount $[illegible] by the means of [illegible] amendments. In conference the senate receded from seven amendments aggregating $[illegible]00, leaving the amount appropriated by the bill $11,141,800. The report was agreed to—yeas 1[illegible], nays 84, and the [illegible] funding bill was [illegible].

Conger submitted a parliamentary inquiry as to whether the [illegible] would apply to a single bill or to [illegible] and extend to all unfinished business.

The speaker declined to answer at present. He would decide it when the house was [illegible] after [illegible] was taken.

Frye then modified his motion and instead of [illegible] apportionment bill [illegible] regular order.

The speaker declared the regular order [illegible] apportionment bill, and Carlisle again raised the question of consideration.

[illegible] the fact that the indecision of the other side was now known. I did not want either the funding or apportionment bills. If the republicans would only stop filibustering the apportionment bill they could have [illegible] taken on the question of consideration, and by a vote of yeas [illegible] and nays [illegible] the house refused to consider the apportionment bill.

Conger then demanded consideration of unfinished business which the speaker announced to be the [illegible] March, 1880.

Against this Carlisle again raised a question of consideration, and the house by a vote of [illegible] refused to consider it.

The next measure having the position [illegible] unfinished business was the inter-state commerce bill, and question of consideration was raised against it, and that and several other matters being disposed of the funding bill was reached. The bill having been read as passed by the senate,

McMillan moved to concur in the senate amendments.

Conger raised the point that the bill and senate amendments must first be considered in committee of the whole.

The point being overruled, Conger raised a similar point upon the amendment increasing from [illegible] to [illegible] of [illegible] per cent the expenses which may be incurred in disposing of the bonds and treasury notes. This point was also overruled and Conger appealed. The appeal was tabled by a vote of 1[illegible]4 to [illegible].

Tucker moved for recess, stating that he would press consideration of the bill to its final passage. Recess was then taken.

Upon reassembling the funding bill was taken up, [illegible] amendments to be considered separately.

Amendment [illegible] to authorize the secretary of the treasury to [illegible] from time to time, not exceeding $[illegible]000 at any one time, of gold and silver coin in the treasury for the redemption of [illegible].

Amendment [illegible] that [illegible] which Conger proposes [illegible] his amendment and which [illegible] the time of July 1st [illegible] that [illegible] bonds shall be receivable as security for national bank circulation.

[illegible] amendment [illegible] to give Mills a chance to offer an amendment moved by him. It was the intention of the republicans to [illegible] Mills amendment [illegible] own the bill and [illegible] Mills was inclined to withdraw it.

De La Matyr immediately renewed the amendment, but Tucker now refused to yield and demanded the previous question on senate amendment No. 2[illegible]. The main question was ordered—yeas 1[illegible], nays [illegible].

De La Matyr then moved to recommit the bill to the committee on ways and means with instructions to that committee to report it back with the amendments which he had submitted, incorporated therein.

Carlisle raised a point of order against the motion, and it was sustained by the speaker.

Senate amendment 2[illegible] was then concurred in.

Tucker then moved to concur in senate amendments with amendments which he said had been authorized by the committee on ways and means. Then came a struggle. The bulk of the democrats were opposed to amending the bill in any particular, as that would make it necessary to return it to the senate and render possible its defeat. Several motions by [illegible] without amendment were made on the democratic side, and on Tucker's motion only the following democrats voted in the affirmative: Beltzhoover, Carlisle, Gillette, Hutchins, Morse, [illegible], Tucker and Warner. The republicans voted solidly in the affirmative, but the motion was lost—yeas 103, nays 1[illegible]. Previous to the announcement the vote stood—yeas 108, nays 1[illegible], but before announcement of the result democrats Bachman, King, Phister and Martin of West Virginia changed their votes from affirmative to negative, and Camp of New York changed his vote for the purpose of moving reconsideration.

Springer moved to lay the motion to reconsider on the table, and Conger demanded yeas and nays.

Ashland Tidings: P. I. Myer has suffered much annoyance and loss from the carelessness or evil design of gunners about his place on Bear creek, and is now really alarmed for the personal safety of the members of his family. His geese, hogs, cattle and horses have been shot, and he feels that some stray ball may reach a human victim next. The other day he drove home from town and unhitched his horse from the buggy, leaving the vehicle standing not far from the house, and a few moments after a ball from somebody's rifle struck one of the wheels, cutting a hickory spoke in two.

The spring term of [illegible] college opened March 1st. Botany, geology, modern history, besides the usual business branches, are made prominent. A teachers class will also be organized and be followed by a county teachers' institute.

Although the [illegible] farmer and warehouseman [illegible] [illegible] practical [illegible] [illegible] wheat [illegible] that the [illegible] to keep at least [illegible] in the market [illegible] any advance or fall in [illegible] whether it is [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible].

Judge Boise rendered a decision last week [illegible] has not been published that is of interest to farmers and warehousemen. He says that a warehouseman has no right to ship any grain stored with him by another party and which has not been purchased by the warehouseman without a written permission from the farmer or owner, and if shipped without this consent it was an indictable offense.

From all information obtainable as much grain has been seeded to wheat in Marion county last fall as ever before, and farmers are prepared to take advantage of every fine day in this month and [illegible] seed [illegible].

Mr. W. J. Herren of the farmers warehouse [illegible] informs me that he has 3000 bushels of wheat in the warehouse belonging to farmers in this county and yet unsold. He was [illegible] wheat from [illegible].

Mr. W. S. Kinney, secretary of the Salem Flouring Mill Co., informs [illegible] that the company [illegible] wheat stored with them by [illegible] farmers. This mill as usual is running full time [illegible] the large [illegible] partner Mr. [illegible] at Liverpool is expected to arrive here by the last of this month.

Catarrhal POISON

Wei De Meyer's Treatise on Catarrh, explains the following important facts:

1. That Catarrhal Colds become a poisonous infection, at first local and finally constitutional.
2. That, being constitutional, the infection is beyond the reach of mere local remedies.
3. That impurities in the nostrils are necessarily swallowed into the stomach and inhaled into the lungs, thus poisoning the Digestive, Respiratory and Genito-urinary organs.
4. That Catarrhal virus follows the mucous membrane and causes Deafness, Dyspepsia, Chronic Diarrhœa, Bronchitis, Leucorrhœa, and Consumption.
5. That Smokes, Douches, Inhalations and Insoluble Snuff cannot possibly remove infectious inflammation from the organs named.
6. That an antidote for Catarrh must possess an inoculative quality for and the quality of being absorbed by, the purulent mucous wherever located.

Based upon these plain theories, Dr. Wei De Meyer's Catarrh Cure has proved to be infallible. It not only relieves, it cures Catarrh at any stage. Home testimony:

AS AN ORGAN

The New York Herald seems to have decided to become an organ Of late it is devoting no little space to laudation of Senator Conkling It sets him up as the great master of the republican party wants homage paid to him as the one anointed boss, and almost rails at those who question his divine right This is one of those peculiar freaks of journalism for which the Herald has long been so noted Of course it doesn t care a groat for Mr Conkling but does care to make a sensation For this purpose and to this end it an day assume an attitude of noble independence and to-morrow can play the role of the most superserviceable party organ Its laudation of Mr Conkling at this time seems almost like a satire upon the utterances of the personal organs which Lord Roscoe keeps to trumpet his fame and herald his pretensions But the number of republicans who want either a national boss or local bosses is comparatively small Trouble always follows an attempt to make the caprice of a boss the law of the party That is a faction of the party, calling itself "the old guard" which was led at the Chicago convention last June by Mr Conkling It is made up of disciplined legionaries who go into politics under stalwart leadership to fight for loot and personal triumph In every state they follow their boss with unquestioning and and servile obedience This faction grew up under the Grant administration Mr Conkling is its principal leader But it cannot control the republican party Its inability to do that was proven at the Chicago convention Some of the loud talkers of this faction have however been claiming ever since the election that the victory was due solely to them It is amusing to find the New York Herald the great representative of independent journalism echoing this absurdity and insisting that Mr Conkling as the leader of this faction should be instated by President Garfield as the acknowledged boss of his administration One of the arguments for "recognition" of this dictatorship is that Mr Garfield will desire re election in 1884 and that it will not be prudent for him to dispute or ignore Mr Conkling's claim to "solely sovereign sway and masterdom" This is a long peep into futurity In retrospection there might be more wisdom. It is not recorded that Mr Garfield had any valuable assistance in the last convention from Mr Conkling and his followers Perhaps he might do quite as well without it in the next one. He certainly will if the contest again comes up between the republican party and the representatives of the boss system and he again stands in the position he occupied before. For there is to be unceasing war against this arrogance of bosses everywhere Pennsylvania has just given it a stunning blow There is a very possible contingency under which Oregon next year will do a thing of precisely the same kind

SUBSIDY EXTRAORDINARY.

Of all the railway subsidies ever granted that voted by the Dominion parliament to the Canadian Pacific syndicate appears to bear off the palm It is said to have excited among Canadians the gravest apprehensions of national bankruptcy and ruin, and no wonder, since to a debt already so large that the revenues are insufficient to meet the interest upon it and the ordinary expenses of the government here is now to be added the sum of twenty five million dollars as an absolute gift to the syndicate Moreover as we learn from the Chicago Times analysis of the bill while making this huge donation which will constitute a burden proportioned to population, equal to a subsidy of three hundred millions in the United States the Dominion's sources of revenue are crippled by the grant of about all the land in the so-called "fertile belt" of the northwestern territory The grant includes twenty five million acres equal to a strip fifty miles wide and eight hundred long and the contractors are authorized to take the whole of it from the best public lands in the province And this is not all The Dominion government has already expended about thirty millions in building portions of the line and these are given outright to the syndicate There is no promise of repayment of the money subsidy or of reimbursement of the money expended on the work, nor any conceivable advantage that the Canadian government can derive from the road now or hereafter in the way of revenue. In fact, the only revenues that might have been drawn from the enterprise—duties on materials used in construction and taxes on the road—are expressly renounced in the contract. The Times concludes that, in all its aspects, this contract appears to be the most monstrous robbery ever planned in a civilized country Its immediate effect will be to add two millions per annum to the burden of taxes which the people of the provinces will have to pay—an enormous additional burden for the comparatively limited wealth of the country In the fact that there is now a tax levied upon every log cut for lumber—a tax so onerous that the lumbermen are earnestly petitioning to be relieved from it—there is pretty strong evidence that the sources of revenue, in the legitimate sense are all on tap so to speak, already. Where the income necessary to pay interest on the railroad subsidy is to be obtained is a mystery The only resource seems to lie outside the domain of legitimate tax-gathering—a resort from taxation to confiscation

A GREAT MONOPOLY.

In the Atlantic for March H. D Lloyd tells the "Story of a Great Monopoly," showing how the Standard Oil Company controls the petroleum product of this country from the wells to the hands of consumers in every part of the world, and the methods employed to secure and maintain this great monopoly. The Standard Oil Company is an organization under the general management of John Rockefeler with a nominal capital of $3 500 000 but in fact many times richer its monthly dividends being over $1,000 000 By means of vast financial resources and a policy of dividing profits with railroad companies over whose lines the oil must pass to reach consumers in the United States, and the seaboard for export the Standard regulates the price which producers of crude oil must accept and the prices which consumers must pay In the latter case it generally adds one hundred per cent to a rate which after covering the original cost expense of refining handling, risk and all other charges, would yield a rich profit By an arbitrary and oppressive course in which it has been aided by bribed judges legislatures which it controls and its own agents in congress, it has crushed out all competition and impoverished all competitors. So thorough is its mastery of the railroads that despite all equalizing legislation, its freights are carried for one half or one third the rates which competitors must pay while it is afforded every possible convenience of shipment, and every possible obstacle is thrown in the way of others The methods of the company are so notoriously corrupt that its stock-holders dare not announce themselves, and repeated attempts to discover them have failed All this power is due to the shameless partnership of the railroads which divide with the oil company the profits of extortion But for the co-operation of the railroads in this scheme of plunder it never would have been possible to build it up, and the oil which lights the dwellings of tens of millions of people would cost but one-half its present price To lessen this abuse regulations must be adopted by which railroad rates are made equal to all shippers For years the Standard company has regulated the supply of oil and the price both to the producer and consumer To-day as Mr Lloyd declares in every part of the United States people who burn kerosene are paying this company a tax on every gallon amounting to several times its original cost to that concern Consumption of a gallon a day is a yearly tribute to the company of $82 the income from $900 at four per cent. This Atlantic article is likely to produce a sensation throughout the country

A STANDING PERPLEXITY

The legislatures of many states now in session are talking over the old subject of assessment and taxation, and the usual futile efforts are being made to enact laws which will reach the owners of invisible forms of property In times past we have been inclined to think that less intelligence was manifested on this subject in the legislature of our own state than any other But in the proceedings of other legislatures there may be noted the same persistence in hopeless error which has so often been observed in attempts to deal with the subject in the legislature of Oregon Indeed it appears quite hopeless to contend against the delusions and fallacies on which the tax laws of nearly all our states are founded It is suggested however that in a century or two the people may reach a discovery long since made by the scientific economist that our whole system of taxation is based on wrong principles In that millennial period or some other period of universal illumination it will be understood that it does not pay to try to tax those invisible and elusive forms of personal property that can run or hide away, namely, credits stocks bonds, notes money and the almost innumerable variety of intangible things which legislators have ever vainly tried to get at by inquisitorial contrivances In spite of all efforts most of these secret forms of property have always escaped taxation and always will, and every attempt to tax them only gives their owners additional advantage enabling them to profit through loopholes in the law and to throw the burden on those whom the law vainly essays to protect against it When credits in any form are taxed it is the debtor who at last is forced to pay it When the borrower insists that the mortgage which the lender has taken shall be taxed he is only requiring him self to pay the tax through increased rate of interest The wonder is that he can never find it out though it is one of the plainest of every day facts

Senator Bayard made a strong speech against the three per cent funding bill He advocated the three and a half per cent rate on the ground that a three per cent bond would not sell at par and opposed the compulsory feature of the fifth section requiring the banks to exchange bonds of higher for those of lower rate He predicted financial disorder as a result of these attempts, and his anticipations have been realized And while he appreciated the importance of funding the debt at the lowest possible rate he affirmed a belief that it was of even more importance to settle the currency on the solid rock of stable value than to reduce the yearly interest Mr Bayard has justly been regarded for many years as one of the ablest exponents of sound financial views in the whole country

Gen Garfield during his long career in the house of representatives frequently spoke in favor of modifying our tariff policy We print some of these utterances to-day It will be seen that they go directly against the doctrines of the extreme protectionists and therefore against our tariff system as it now stands We commend these remarks to those who seem to think that a man cannot be a republican unless he is willing to uphold and defend all that is claimed in the name of "protection"

Imports of merchandise into the United States during the year 1879 reached a total value of $513,602,796. Exports during the same year were valued at $765,159 825 For 1880 the imports were $696,808 433, and the exports $889,649,840. Comparison shows that the increase of imports in 1880 over 1879 was about 36 per cent while increase of exports was a little over 16 per cent.

A dispatch says that Mr Mitchell the new senator from Pennsylvania (Mitchell is his true name) has always been hostile to the Cameron machine He is a great student, has made no money in politics has a clear record and will be the handsomest man in the new senate.

THE TARIFF ISSUE.

General Garfield in Favor of Reducing the Duties on Imports—Revenue Reform the Alternative of Abandoning Protective System Altogether.

[From the Record of the Forty First Congress

The house, being in the committee of the whole and having under consideration the bill (H R No 1068) to amend existing laws relating to the duty on imports, and for other purposes—

Mr Garfield of Ohio, said There are indeed two points of the greatest importance involved in this bill and in all bills relating to taxes One is the necessity of providing revenue for the government and the other is the necessities and wants of American industry These are not abstractions, but present imperative realities As an abstract theory of political economy free trade has many advocates and much can be said in its favor, nor will it be denied that the scholarship of modern times is largely on that side, that a large majority of the great thinkers of the present day are leading in the direction of what is called free trade

* * * Turning aside from the merits of the question itself I ask the attention of the committee to the possibilities of the case Consider the forces and elements now operating upon the question and ask yourselves what is likely to be the result In this house there are about sixty democrats a great majority of whom are declared free traders

Mr Wood—I beg the gentleman's pardon I do not know a single free trader as such on this side of the house.

Mr Mungen—Here is another.

Mr Garfield, of Ohio—Ex pede Herculem

Mr Wood—I am in favor of a tariff for revenue and not for absolute free trade and I believe that is the position occupied by a majority of the members on this side of the house

Mr Garfield, of Ohio—If the gentlemen on the other side are not nearly all free-traders they have misrepresented themselves, for of the score that have made speeches on this subject almost every one has denounced the tariff as robbery or fraud So much for that side of the house How is it on this? West of Ohio, north of Arkansas, and east of the Rocky mountains there are nine states represented here, all of them republican, some of them overwhelmingly republican in politics Yet if I understand correctly the opinions of the fifty seven democratic and republican representatives in this house from those nine states, there are at least fifty of them who are in favor of some reduction in the present rates of our tariff I do not think there is any agreement among these gentlemen what they will reduce or how much they will reduce and I say nothing now about the justice or injustice, the wisdom or folly of their opinions. Many of them from the northwest like the gentleman from Minnesota (Mr. Wilkinson) affirm that the duties as at present adjusted are oppressive to the farming community and give great and undue advantage to those engaged in manufactures Many of them tell us there is a feeling of deep discontent and growing hostility to the tariff among agriculturists Many of them like the gentleman from Minnesota disavow any sympathy whatever with free trade or free-traders and have no more sympathy with the democratic party now than they had during the war Many of them tell us that unless we submit to a reasonable reduction of tariff duties the reaction now in progress will soon seriously shatter our whole protective system I invoke the earnest attention of the house to these facts of our situation

* * * I believe that the true course for the friends of protection to pursue is to reduce the rates on imports wherever we can justly and safely do so and accepting neither of the extreme doctrines urged on this floor endeavor to establish a stable policy that will commend itself to all patriotic and thoughtful people I know that my colleague (Mr Schenck) thinks that general debate on this subject is of but little consequence but that the true discussion is on the details of the bill I grant it and I know that when we come to consider the separate items of the bill he will find that men declaring themselves free traders will vote for a high rate of duty on some articles in which their district is interested and for a very low duty for other things in which their district is not interested This was my own experience on the committee of ways and means But I have expressed in this general and desultory way the views which I shall carry into the discussion and I believe they are the views which will best subserve both the interests of the treasury and the general interests of American industry

WEDNESDAY MORNING MARCH 2, 1881

CITY.

NATURAL SCIENCE ASSOCIATION.—The monthly meeting of the association will be held this evening at 8 o'clock in the hall of the Handel and Haydn Society above Prentice & Co's music store. The evening will be devoted to electrical experiments illustrating the various technical applications of electricity by Mr Wm Lundberg who has prepared a valuable collection of apparatus for this purpose. A hand power dynamo-electric machine an Edison horseshoe lamp and a Werderman lamp will be exhibited to illustrate the methods of electric lighting. The production of magnetism by electricity and of electricity by magnetism the decomposition of water the lighting of gas and firing of blasts by electricity and other uses of this agent will each be explained and demonstrated. All interested in the subject are invited to attend.

ARMED WITH A REQUISITION.—Sheriff Winson of New Tacoma arrived here yesterday, having a requisition for Jack Shephard who was arrested here last Saturday charged with being connected with the safe robbery at Steilacoom a few days since. To-day Sheriff Winson will go to Salem where the necessary papers will be obtained and returning this evening, will start with Shephard to-morrow morning for Tacoma. There is most conclusive testimony of the guilt of the prisoner. Yesterday two non-compound interest notes were found in the ... corresponding in number with those taken from the safe at the time of the robbery. Shephard has been identified as the person who was seen at Steilacoom prior to the burglary.

ESPINOSA CONCERT COMPANY.—Mr F W Stechhan lessee and manager of New Market theater has received a telegram from Senor Miguel Espinosa the eminent young pianist recently with the Hess-Marriner-Campbell concert company for dates for his concert company. Among the artists are Mrs Jenny Landsman prima donna from the Italian opera house Milan, Miss Sylvia Garrish lately with the Melvill opera company, Mr Ernest Schmidt solo violoncellist and Mr Jacob Zech, both graduates of Leipzic conservatory of music. Season will commence Monday March 7th. The season will consist of four performances—Monday evening, Thursday, Saturday and a matinee performance.

LOSS OF STOCK.—From Mr James Imbrie just arrived from Yakima, we learn that snow was still lying deep in that locality a week ago and had covered the ground continuously since November. Mr Imbrie is of opinion that about sixty per cent of all the stock in that part of the country has perished. Mr W J McConnell of Yamhill also arrived last evening from Lewiston. He says there is no snow in that locality, and has not been much through the winter. But the loss of stock, particularly sheep has been very considerable.

THE RIVER.—The river here is coming up very slowly having risen only about two feet during the 24 hours preceding midnight. At 12 o'clock last night the river stood 16 feet 9 inches above extreme low water mark. The Willamette at various points above is either at a stand, or slowly receding and as the rain has ceased, it is safe to predict that the extreme height has been reached.

ENLARGING CISTERNS.—The contracts for enlarging the fire cisterns at the intersection of Taylor and Third and Third and Morrison streets, to 20 000 gallons capacity was awarded S S Cook & Co. The following are the bidders for the contract and the amounts: S S Cooke & Co $750, Carney & Cassidy $945 00, McCullough & Martin, $825, J Gibson $796.

UNDER ADVISEMENT.—Yesterday afternoon Lee Sam formerly resident agent and manager of the firm of Coung Ye Loung & Co, was on trial in police court on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses from the bank of British Columbia. The testimony was concluded and the case taken under advisement.

QUARRY.—Mr E J Jeffery has a large force of men at work at his stone quarry, near Washougal getting out finishing blocks for the draw pier of Portland bridge. A large number are ready for shipment and as soon as the water recedes sufficiently they will be brought up the river and placed in position.

FOR ALASKA.—The steamer California will leave Port Townsend and Victoria for Wrangle and Sitka on or about Thursday, the 10th inst. Passengers and freight for this trip must be at Port Townsend by that date. The California will sail from this port for points in Alaska about the 29th inst.

OREGON STOVE FOUNDRY.—Following are the newly elected officers of the Oregon Stove Foundry: president J Loewenberg, vice president Sol Openhelmer, secretary, Louis Kuhn, treasurer J W Young, superintendent T M Rogers. These gentlemen were also elected directors.

A SOAP THIEF.—A correspondent writing from Ilwaco W T under date of Feb 27th says: On the night of the 26th the warehouse at Ilwaco was broken open by thieves who contented themselves by carrying off only a box of soap.

PRISONER RECAPTURED.—John Hogan alias Peter Potts was recaptured at Rainier yesterday by Arthur Perry and taken to the U S penitentiary at McNeil's Island W T from which place he escaped a few days since.

HEAVY MAIL.—The steamer Oregon brought up on the present trip 132 sacks of mail classified as follows: 119 sacks canvas, 11 lock pouches, 2 registered pouches and 7 cases.

LARGE LAWSUIT

Growing out of Damage to Wheat by the January Flood.

Yesterday the Bank of British Columbia, through its counsel Col W H Effinger, began suit in the U S circuit court against George Marshall and J M ten Bosch, composing the firm of Geo Marshall & Co for $12 100 balance due the bank on the year's account. Marshall & Co it will be remembered, had a large quantity of grain stored in Pacific dock which was damaged by the sudden rise in the Willamette last January. They had advanced sums nearly equaling its value to country warehousemen and farmers, and the bank in turn carried Marshall & Co for like amounts (about 90 per cent of the market value) taking warehouse receipts as collateral security. After the wheat became damaged it realized less than one fourth of its former value and the hypothecated bills of lading were insufficient to pay the loan from the bank. Marshall & Co claim that the bank has recourse only to the wheat itself, while the latter hold the firm responsible.

BRIEF NOTES.

Regular meeting of the common council this evening.

The Addison Fan Drill will be an attractive novelty.

The Oregon will sail for San Francisco on Friday morning.

Unitarian concert at New Market theater next Friday evening.

Letters at this office for "M R," "New Goods, Surveyor," Box G and "D."

The steamship Columbia will sail from San Francisco this morning for Portland.

EPIZOOTIC.

THREE-FOURTHS OF THE HORSES IN THE CITY AFFECTED

Very Mild Form of the Epidemic, and but few Serious Cases—Precautions to be Observed—The Disease in Eastern Oregon

Last Thursday a mild form of epizootic was discovered in several horses belonging to livery stables here. Since then it has spread rapidly and now more than two thirds of all the horses in the city are affected by it. Some livery stable keepers estimate that as many as four fifths have been attacked. The disease assumes the form of epidemic influenza and differs from that which prevailed in 1873 in being very much milder. The latter was an ailment ... between influenza and catarrhal fever and ... through the mucous membrane of the whole system while the disease prevalent now is ... the nasal passages. Its symptoms are first coughing and then discharges from the nose, generally light yellow and varying from that to light green.

So far only five serious cases have been reported. Except these all affected animals have been able to perform light work, precaution against overheating as a rule being observed. The various transfer companies have experienced but little difficulty in supplying patrons notwithstanding their entire stock has been attacked. The horses feed upon bran mash and all heavy feed is discarded.

It is necessary to keep horses which have been taken with the disease comfortably warm. They should not be used hard but they should have daily exercise by walking or light work. This induces free discharge from the nostrils. Loss of appetite and dullness are generally premonitory symptoms of lung fever. When these appear arterial sedatives and stimulants should be given and a veterinary surgeon sent for without delay. There are now five serious cases of lung fever. In case of debility horses should be warmly blanketed. Epizootic usually lasts ten days and none of the cases have as yet sufficiently developed for physicians to form an opinion as to whether it will prove generally serious or not. It is not thought to be contagious but is strongly epidemic.

B B Aker, who has returned from Eastern Oregon reports that horses in Union, Umatilla and Wasco counties are generally affected with epizootic of a more severe type than that prevalent here. The cold winter, want of shelter and absence of wholesome food has caused many deaths from the epidemic and fears are entertained that the loss will be great before it subsides. But few cases are reported from valley counties.

THE DISASTER

Some Additional Particulars of the Collision between the Steamship Oregon and Clatsop Chief

In the course of a conversation yesterday with Capt Hiram Brown who had command of the steamship Oregon at the time of the disastrous collision between that vessel and the Clatsop Chief near Willow bar on Monday night the following additional particulars are obtained.

According to law the ascending vessel has the right to designate to the vessel coming down on which side to pass. To this rule there are some exceptions as for instance when two steamers meet in a narrow or dangerous channel. In such cases circumstances must control and signals are expected to be given early by them. However, where the fatal collision occurred the river was broad and there existed no good reason for making any exception to the law.

As the steamship Oregon was coming up the river and the Clatsop Chief going down the latter was to windward ... with a ... barge ... at the pilot Capt Brown. There was a long stretch of the river intervening between the approaching vessels when they first sighted each other. When about half a mile apart Capt Brown gave one whistle which signified that the Clatsop Chief should pass on the port side. Capt Brown states that when the signal was given the Clatsop Chief was seen over his port bow. The whistle gave ... the Oregon was promptly and correctly answered by the pilot of the Clatsop Chief. For some reason unknown the Clatsop Chief instead of continuing in the direction indicated changed her course and started to pass on the starboard side. Capt Brown was puzzled for a moment at the peculiar action of the approaching steamer and made a remark to the mate of the Oregon who was standing near: "I wonder what that fellow is trying to do?" Thinking of course that the Clatsop Chief would change to the port side Capt Brown kept bearing his vessel over. Still the little steamer continued to move over to the starboard. By this time the rapidly approaching vessels were very close and Capt Brown still observing the green light on the Clatsop Chief became convinced that a collision was inevitable. He instantly signaled the engineer to reverse his engine. This order was obeyed without delay. But as the Clatsop Chief kept pressing on in her course she was directly across the Oregon's bow. The headway of the ocean steamer was so great that notwithstanding the propeller was reversed and going under full steam ahead the ... she ran ... the barge and little steamer just as if they were made of frail reeds.

At the time there were only four men ... lookout on the Oregon, all the remainder of the crew having turned in. The boats were lowered just as quickly as possible under the circumstances and every human effort made to save the men.

Capt Brown is positive in which opinion he is corroborated by Capt Hoffman that not more than ten minutes elapsed between the time of the collision and the lowering of the ship's boats. After the disaster the Oregon drifted down the river keeping abreast of the floating fragments of the wreck, for several miles and did not abandon the search for the men until convinced that all except the four who found watery graves were rescued. Some of the men were saved by boats which put out from the shore but all would have been rescued by boats from the Oregon.

The matter will doubtless be thoroughly investigated by the board of pilot commissioners.

ALL ABOUT GOVERNMENT BONDS.

Instructive Statement from a Treasury Official.

WASHINGTON, Jan 30.—A well informed treasury officer who thoroughly understands all the machinery of the treasury department has given the following general explanation regarding government securities loans and other matters which will be found of general interest.

When the secretary of the treasury wishes to place a new loan on the market the creation of the loan having first been authorized by congress he advertises in the newspapers for proposals for subscriptions The new stock is given to the highest subscriber or bidder The purchase money or subscription is deposited with the treasurer of the United States who gives a receipt in the nature of a certificate of deposit The treasurer then issues a warrant upon the chief of the loan division of the secretary's office who records the warrant and issues one in turn on the register of the treasury If coupon bonds are wanted, the issue is very simple Coupon bonds being payable to the bearer, are regarded as so much money The register's vaults are stocked with all denominations and any given sum is abstracted and delivered to the person who presents the treasurer's certificate of deposit A record of this transaction is made in a numerical register There is no safeguard over transactions in coupon bonds other than this register of the numbers of the face of the bonds The amount and number of the coupon bonds issued are thus by the government, but the holders of them are as much unknown as the holders of money, The issue of registered bonds however is quite different. The government imposes such restrictions that is next to impossible for anyone except the legitimate payee to dispose of them As in the case of coupon bonds, a subscriber deposits his money with the United States treasurer That individual issues his warrant on the secretary's office signifying that registered bonds are wanted and giving the name and address of the payee The chief of the loan division of the secretary's office then conveys this information to the register of the treasury through the mediumship of another warrant the register signs the bonds, an impression of the seal of the secretary is affixed, and the bonds are ready for delivery As they now stand it is impossible for any one but the person whose name is inscribed on the face of the bonds to transfer them On the back of the bonds space is left for such transfer to be made and the acknowledgement of the transfer must be had before certain designated persons. The treasury officials rigidly enforce this rule with regard to the funded loans, the 4½'s and 4's and can take acknowledgements, and all under their official seals A national bank president and cashier an assistant United States treasurer, United States circuit or district court judge or clerk United States marshal, United States collector of internal revenue or collector of a port a United States district attorney or postmaster and if abroad, a United States minister or consul These official persons must satisfy themselves of the identity of the payee before they attest their acknowledgement of the transfer In the transfer of the old loans the sixes, 10-40's and 50's no such restrictions are required and a transfer is accepted at the treasury department where the acknowledgement is made simply before a notary public The department requires absolutely that when a bond is transferred it must be sent at once to the treasury when a new bond is issued to the payee In the entry in the journal in the register's office there is a debit of the transferred bond and a credit of the name of payee number and amount of the new bond The debit subsequently offsets and balances the old payee's account The transferred bond is then canceled and filed away Registered bonds are never destroyed and the transactions for fifty years can be turned to for reference at any time in the register's office. Coupon bonds after their redemption, are kept until the accounts of the various offices agree and they are then destroyed by maceration It should be understood that the system of book keeping employed in the treasury extends to all the offices. One office audits the accounts of another and the system presumes to exercise a check on each office As regards which I have stated were the 4 and 4½ per cents there is little danger from counterfeiting Their engraving is superior to anything the government has yet produced and there is so much dealing in them that altered numbers could be speedily detected I believe that Brockway's plan was to substitute numbers on stolen bonds with the numbers on genuine bonds which he had legitimately procured. This plan might still work on the bonds of the old loan outstanding, but it is hardly possible with the new loan Whenever a bond is lost a caveat is entered at the department against payment Whenever it is presented the officials know of its diversion at once from its real owner By filing an indemnity bond with the secretary a duplicate registered bond will be issued to its payee and after the secretary is satisfied that the original bond is actually beyond recovery the bond may be renewed The number of old bonds outstanding is so few that I apprehend there need be no fear of counterfeits, but anybody can satisfy his doubts of a government bond by sending its number to the loan division of the secretary's office If doubts are had of a registered bond, the name of the supposed payee, as well as the number of the bond, should be sent to the register's office The officials there can tell at once of the genuineness of the bonds Another test is to see that the impression of the secretary's seal is on the lower middle of a bond which can be seen plainly on a genuine bond by holding it up to the light

THE NEW LOANS

Jeff Davis' New Book.

[Washington special to the Cincinnati Commercial]

The friends of Gen Joseph E. Johnston, the greatest of the living ex confederate generals are watching for the forthcoming book written by Jeff Davis with a good deal of interest They have had intimations that Mr Davis severely criticises Gen Johnston and attributes a degree of failure to his alleged stubbornness and incapacity It is also said that Davis was stung by observations in a book written by Johnston wherein he speaks in no high terms of the civil chief of the confederacy. Friends of Gen Johnston say that he has material in reserve, and is holding it back to see what Davis really does say The forthcoming book of the president of the late confederacy is awaited here in political and military circles with a degree of interest seldom bestowed upon any publication With a view no doubt, to a large sale, Mr Davis has carefully kept from the public eye the nature of the contents of his book and nothing is really known about it except the title. It will have an immense sale, larger it is believed than any previous book relating to the war A friend of Mr. Davis tells your correspondent that the author has discarded the old confederate quarrels, and has not attempted to make a point in his own behalf at the expense of his co-laborers and cosufferers in the defunct confederacy

The friends of Senator Brown, of Georgia are also looking forward to the book with great interest Brown was governor of Georgia from the beginning to the end of the war being the only governor of a southern state who held his seat through all the tribulation During the latter part of the war Davis and Brown had violent points of difference which gave rise to very sharp correspondence, a quarrel that resulted in no good to the confederacy Whether Davis attempts to haul Brown over the coals is not known If he does, Senator Brown will reply He always does that, and can hold up his end of the controversy with anybody. He has large experience in that line

A Conscientious Girl's Sacrifice.

[From the Boston Traveller]

The following story is told of a two-story brick house in the suburbs of Boston whose doors and windows are nailed up, and which has never been occupied Nearly thirty years ago a young man built it for his bride, intending to mortgage it and pay for it gradually, as his worldly goods increased to all of which she agreed When the wedding day was appointed, the trousseau ready, and the house finished, he took the lady out from Boston to inspect it. After going over the house he presented her with a deed of it for a wedding gift. Knowing his circumstances she was astonished that he had actually paid for it. He explained that, buying a ticket in a lottery, he had drawn the first prize which just covered the cost of the house. The Puritan maiden protested she would not take a home obtained by gambling, and refused the deed. His arguments were of no avail; she remained obdurate. When they left the house he locked the door and threw the key into the brook near by. The next day he boarded up the windows and only the spider and mice ever occupied it The man never married, he became rich but is a wanderer on the face of the earth The woman never married—she is still living poor and an invalid

A GOOD WATCH FOR $5.

We have just received, direct from the manufacturers, an invoice of the celebrated Waterbury Watch, which we offer at the low price of $5 each. This is not a toy, but a real Stem Winding Watch, strong and durable in all its parts, and calculated to do good service for years—a Watch too simple in its construction to be likely to get out of order—the parts of which are interchangable and can be replaced at a trifling expense, if broken. Mailed to any address on receipt of price. A liberal discount to the trade.

"BOSS OF THE ROAD" OVERALLS IMPROVED.

The unparalleled popularity of the "Boss of the Road" Overalls has induced several manufacturers to imitate them with an inferior class of work.

To protect our customers from such imposition; to place an Overall on the market which shall SURPASS all others in strength, while as elegant in cut as the most fastidious could desire, and, above all, to furnish an article AS CHEAP AS THE CHEAPEST, we determined to improve them by the addition of our

PATENTED CONTINUOUS FLY,

Heretofore only used in Standard make of Overalls. With this valuable improvement we guarantee our "Boss of the Road" Overall as the BEST and MOST SERVICEABLE ARTICLE, at the price, to be had in the United States.

Manufacturers and Dealers are specially cautioned against infringement on letters patent covering the Continuous Fly.

Ask your dealer for the "Boss of the Road" Overall; insist on getting it, and take none other.
